

Battle Companions

Every combat encounter can be its own story—a tale with its own heroes and villains, its own tension and plot. And like any good story, a good combat can be ruined by poor pacing. When combat has too many combatants taking too many turns, it can slow the whole session down into a slog, and allied nonplayer characters (NPCs) can exacerbate that problem.

The rules here model a new, faster way to include such NPC allies. These battle companions' abstract mechanics keep them from slowing the action, while their radical-and-daring (RAD) features make combat fun without unbalancing the conflict or taking the spotlight from the players.

Narrative Presence

A battle companion has only a “narrative presence” on the battlefield. The battle companion's bookkeeping is cut down simply by ignoring its position and health. Although a battle companion could come to harm through a narrative fiat as the story demands, they're protected by the following rules:

- ✦ The battle companion's position, movement, range, and line of sight aren't tracked.
- ✦ The battle companion can't be harmed or otherwise affected by enemies.
- ✦ The battle companion isn't subject to impediments or hazards on the battlefield.

The goal of abstracting the Battle Companion into a narrative presence is to reduce mental overhead.

Running a Battle Companion

The battle companion has several special rules for its own activity during combat.

- ✦ The battle companion's turn occurs immediately after all other combatants take their turns in the round, but some RAD features let it act earlier in the round.
- ✦ The battle companion has no effect on combat except to use one RAD feature each round.
- ✦ The player with the lowest initiative is the designated “RAD Wrangler,” which is the person who decides which RAD feature the companion will use, who they target, and any other parameters for the feature.
- ✦ With the exception of Teamwork, the RAD Wrangler can't apply the same RAD feature to the same target(s), whether allies or enemies, for two rounds in a row.

Each combat can include a maximum of one battle companion. The players should decide who goes into battle with the party if multiple NPCs qualify. Changing which NPC acts as a battle companion takes an hour or longer as their new ally gears up, prepares spells, and otherwise readies themselves for combat. This roster change can be made during a short or long rest.

Making Battle Companions

The anatomy of a battle companion is very simple: just choose an ability! Each battle companion has two RAD features: the Teamwork feature and one more that you select from the samples provided below. (Alternately, make up a new RAD feature to pair with Teamwork.)

Choose and flavor RAD features to match the battle companion's concept. For example, you might select a RAD feature that knocks down enemies if the battle companion is a burly giant who rolls boulders like bowling balls, a seductive siren whose song lulls enemies to sleep for a moment, or a frightening dragon whose countenance makes foes cower or grovel, dropping prone.

Radical-and-Daring Features

RAD features are easy to apply but have a few restrictions.

- ✦ The battle companion's RAD features don't use attack rolls, nor do enemy targets get saving throws.
- ✦ An enemy with Legendary Resistance can spend one use of that trait to ignore a single use of a RAD feature that targets it.
- ✦ An enemy that presents Overwhelming Odds (its challenge rating is 3 or more points higher than the party's average level) can't be targeted by RAD features except Teamwork.

Each RAD feature has an “affinity” upgrade. This stronger version is a reward for players roleplaying with the NPC, engaging with the character to a degree that creates familiarity and enhances the battle companion's combat synergy with the party. You determine when (or if) the players achieve this affinity with an NPC, unlocking the more potent versions of the battle companion's RAD features.

On the next page are some sample mechanics for RAD features, including ways to fit them into the combat descriptively and their affinity upgrades.

TEAMWORK

The battle companion presses the foe, relieving pressure on allies or creating openings for the party to strike.

Every battle companion possesses this RAD feature. The battle companion targets one ally. In the coming round, that ally can claim advantage on a single attack roll or ability check they make.

Teamwork is the only RAD feature which can target the same enemy on successive rounds or affect foes which present Overwhelming Odds.

Affinity. The battle companion can instead use this RAD feature as a reaction at any point in the round, targeting an ally as they makes a saving throw. The NPC grants advantage to that ally's save. This ability must be declared before the ally has rolled their saving throw.

BLINDING FLASH

The battle companion blinds enemies for a moment. The companion might be a shaman whose curse can bind the enemies' eyes. They could be a clever alchemist shattering a flask of blinding powder. Perhaps the companion's spellwork conjures globes of darkness around the heads of foes.

The battle companion targets one foe, giving it the blinded condition until the end of its next turn. While blinded, the creature cannot benefit from invisibility.

Affinity. The battle companion can target two enemies.

CURSE CURATOR

Through some mystic means, the battle companion can transfer the afflictions allies are suffering, shifting them onto foes. Perhaps the

THE FULL SUITE OF TEN RAD FEATURES
AND MANY OTHER GOODIES
ARE AVAILABLE TO MPDM PATRONS AT THIS ADDRESS

www.patreon.com/posts/mpdm-battle-50409192

Credits

Writers: Randal Right, Matthew Perkins

Art: Shaman's Stockart

Mithril Patrons: Annie Monette

Everything Else: Matthew Perkins

OPEN GAME LICENSE Version 1.0a

The following text is the property of Wizards of the Coast, Inc. and is Copyright 2000 Wizards of the Coast, Inc ("Wizards"). All Rights Reserved.

1. Definitions: (a) "Contributors" means the copyright and/or trademark owners who have contributed Open Game Content; (b) "Derivative Material" means copyrighted material including derivative works and translations (including into other computer languages), potation, modification, correction, addition, extension, upgrade, improvement, compilation, abridgment or other form in which an existing work may be recast, transformed or adapted; (c) "Distribute" means to reproduce, license, rent, lease, sell, broadcast, publicly display, transmit or otherwise distribute; (d) "Open Game Content" means the game mechanic and includes the methods, procedures, processes and routines to the extent such content does not embody the Product Identity and is an enhancement over the prior art and any additional content clearly identified as Open Game Content by the Contributor, and means any work covered by this License, including translations and derivative works under copyright law, but specifically excludes Product Identity. (e) "Product Identity" means product and product line names, logos and identifying marks including trade dress; artifacts; creatures characters; stories, storylines, plots, thematic elements, dialogue, incidents, language, artwork, symbols, designs, depictions, likenesses, formats, poses, concepts, themes and graphic, photographic and other visual or audio representations; names and descriptions of characters, spells, enchantments, personalities, teams, personas, likenesses and special abilities; places, locations, environments, creatures, equipment, magical or supernatural abilities or effects, logos, symbols, or graphic designs; and any other trademark or registered trademark clearly identified as Product identity by the owner of the Product Identity, and which specifically excludes the Open Game Content; (f) "Trademark" means the logos, names, mark, sign, motto, designs that are used by a Contributor to identify itself or its products or the associated products contributed to the Open Game License by the Contributor (g) "Use", "Used" or "Using" means to use, Distribute, copy, edit, format, modify, translate and otherwise create Derivative Material of Open Game Content. (h) "You" or "Your" means the licensee in terms of this agreement.
2. The License: This License applies to any Open Game Content that contains a notice indicating that the Open Game Content may only be Used under and in terms of this License. You must affix such a notice to any Open Game Content that you Use. No terms may be added to or subtracted from this License except as described by the License itself. No other terms or conditions may be applied to any Open Game Content distributed using this License.
3. Offer and Acceptance: By Using the Open Game Content You indicate Your acceptance of the terms of this License.
4. Grant and Consideration: In consideration for agreeing to use this License, the Contributors grant You a perpetual, worldwide, royalty-free, non-exclusive license with the exact terms of this License to Use, the Open Game Content.
5. Representation of Authority to Contribute: If You are contributing original material as Open Game Content, You represent that Your Contributions are Your original creation and/or You have sufficient rights to grant the rights conveyed by this License.
6. Notice of License Copyright: You must update the COPYRIGHT NOTICE portion of this License to include the exact text of the COPYRIGHT NOTICE of any Open Game Content You are copying, modifying or distributing, and You must add the title, the copyright date, and the copyright holder's name to the COPYRIGHT NOTICE of any original Open Game Content you Distribute.
7. Use of Product Identity: You agree not to Use any Product Identity, including as an indication as to compatibility, except as expressly licensed in another, independent Agreement with the owner of each element of that Product Identity. You agree not to indicate compatibility or co-adaptability with any Trademark or Registered Trademark in conjunction with a work containing Open Game Content except as expressly licensed in another, independent Agreement with the owner of such Trademark or Registered Trademark. The use of any Product Identity in Open Game Content does not constitute a challenge to the ownership of that Product Identity. The owner of any Product Identity used in Open Game Content shall retain all rights, title and interest in and to that Product Identity.
8. Identification: If you distribute Open Game Content You must clearly indicate which portions of the work that you are distributing are Open Game Content.
9. Updating the License: Wizards or its designated Agents may publish updated versions of this License. You may use any authorized version of this License to copy, modify and distribute any Open Game Content originally distributed under any version of this License.
10. Copy of this License: You MUST include a copy of this License with every copy of the Open Game Content You Distribute.
11. Use of Contributor Credits: You may not market or advertise the Open Game Content using the name of any Contributor unless You have written permission from the Contributor to do so.
12. Inability to Comply: If it is impossible for You to comply with any of the terms of this License with respect to some or all of the Open Game Content due to statute, judicial order, or governmental regulation then You may not Use any Open Game Material so affected.
13. Termination: This License will terminate automatically if You fail to comply with all terms herein and fail to cure such breach within 30 days of becoming aware of the breach. All sublicenses shall survive the termination of this License.
14. Reformation: If any provision of this License is held to be unenforceable, such provision shall be reformed only to the extent necessary to make it enforceable.
15. COPYRIGHT NOTICE.

Open Game License v 1.0a Copyright 2000, Wizards of the Coast, Inc.

System Reference Document 5.0 Copyright 2016, Wizards of the Coast, Inc.; Authors Mike Mearls, Jeremy Crawford, Chris Perkins, Rodney Thompson, Peter Lee, James Wyatt, Robert J. Schwalb, Bruce R. Cordell, Chris Sims, and Steve Townshend, based on original material by E. Gary Gygax and Dave Arneson.