

My earliest memories have been people giving me that look.

He's finally stabilized.

That's a relief.

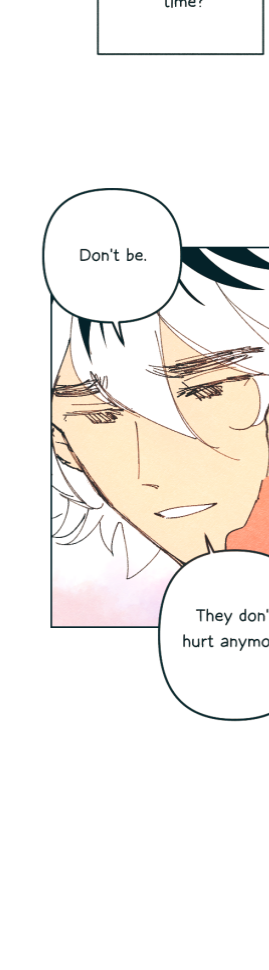

Poor thing..

What do we do with him now?

He can't stay here forever.

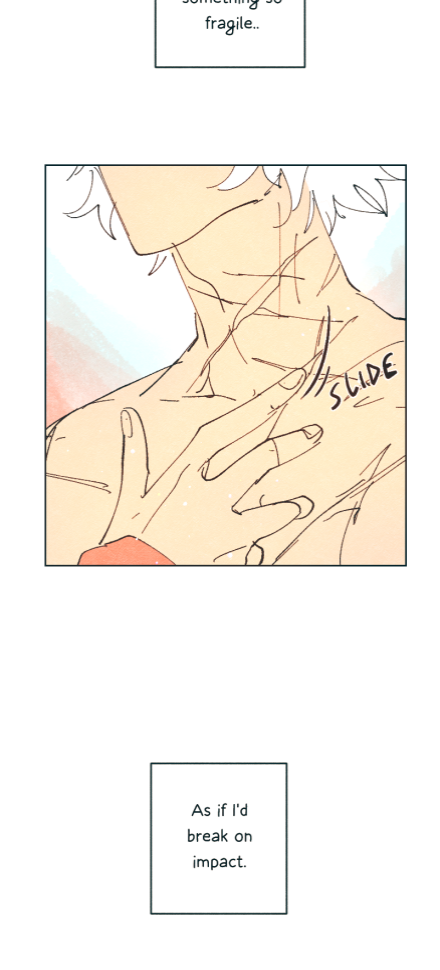

Even my parents gave me the look.

He's just a child.

You know the one.

Half pity, half guilt.

The look people give when they see an injured puppy.

It's like They're sorry for me..

But..

..Not enough to do anything about it.

I always wish I could gouge their eyes out.

You look sad.

I am..

So why is it different this time?

Don't be.

They don't hurt anymore.

Maybe because these hands that are smaller than mine

Caressing this hideous body with so much care..

As if he was touching something so fragile..

As if I'd break on impact.

Did you get them in the last 2 years..?

Yeah, It's worse than it looks, I haven't gotten hurt in months!

Maybe It's a good thing..

Really..?

Of course! You should've seen the other guys.

..That I'm damaged beyond repair.