Airport ambience.

SPEAKER

Hey babe, I made it to the airport. I can't wait to see you again. I'm really sorry I couldn't call you earlier, you're probably asleep right now, so it's actually a good thing that I'm leaving this message for you. I honestly can't wait to see you again. It's only been a few weeks, but I've missed you so much. It's just not the same without you here. I know you've always wanted to come here, but I promise, next time we can come here together, and not for business purposes giggles Let's see, what did I want to talk to you about... Oh right, I hope your project is going well! I know there was a lot of confusion with your boss when I left and we haven't really spoken about that, or at least, you didn't want to talk much about it. Uhm... I had a really good time here, despite mainly being consumed with work. Everyone here was really nice, and the boss at this branch even gave me some time off to go look around the city, which came as a huge shock to me. Uh... I really don't know what else to talk about. All I know is, I can't wait to see you. I'm about to board soon, so I'll give you a call when I make it to my first layover. I love you, bye!

Y/N listens to the second voicemail.

SPEAKER

Hey babe! I made it to my first layover! I guess you're probably still sleeping right now, so this is voicemail number two. You're not intentionally ignoring me, are you? giggles Anyway, I was at the souvenir shop and I saw this really cute snow globe that you can add to your collection. It has a cute little sakura tree in it with a torii on the side. There's also a cute little snowman in front of the tree. I know you'll love it. Anyway, I had a bit of time before this flight to look around the city and my god it's absolutely beautiful.

I think I went a bit too overboard on buying souvenirs and memorabilia, but hey, at least it serves some form of purpose, right?

Now for the actual reason I called, my flight is going to be a bit delayed because of the weather, so you don't have to wake up that early today, or well tomorrow for you. Yeah, not sure when this freak storm happened, but if it gets too bad, then I'll probably have to spend the night here. I'll give you a call as soon as I know anything, okay? And maybe you'll pick up the phone this time around giggles Okay, hope you're sleeping well. Bye, love you kiss then giggle

Speaker listens to the next message.

Rain ambience in the background.

SPEAKER

Hey babe, I know it's only been an hour since I called you last, but I just wanted to let you know that you don't have to go to the airport so early to pick me up. I'm gonna be spending the night at a nearby hotel. The storm got really bad and none of the planes are taking off, except for the select few cargo carriers I guess. Anyway, this gives me more time to spend money on stupid little things that you're probably gonna pretend to get mad at giggles Call me weird, but I always loved that little crinkle you did with your nose whenever you pretended to be annoyed with me... I miss you so much... I can't wait to see you. I'm really sorry that in the few weeks we were apart we haven't been able to talk much. We should do something fun when I get back. Maybe go on a road trip or something. Hell, we can even go and visit some of our friends across the country if we want. I just want a bit of time with you before we're forced to go back to our normal lives giggles I know if you were here with me now, you'd say something along the lines of 'That's such a waste of time, but I suppose there's nothing I can do about it. I'll book a flight.' giggles You always had a way of making things seem bleak, but coming around in the end. I guess even after all these years, you still can't say no to me, huh? giggles Just kidding. Anyway, I gotta go, I'll call you soon. I love you.

Speaker stops listening to the message and walks out of the room to go pick up their wife.
