-This ship was designed mainly as a ship suited to the seas of the underdark, but there are no features that would make it particularly unusual as a surface ship.

-Adaptations suited to the underdark include:

-No sails. This ship is powered entirely by rowers.

-Heavy armaments, including four ballistas, a ram, and quarters for a compliment of marines. The underdark is a dangerous place.

-A narrow hull that sits low in the water. This gives the ship a low profile, making it harder to spot.

-This ship could belong to a crew of any race, but orogs, drow and duergar seem particularly fitting. A grimlock crew could be interesting as well.

-Since trees are hard to come by in the underdark, the hull might be unusually weak compared to a similar surface vessel in order to conserve wood and lower construction costs.
