

Sex Education Class

Written by "Ina Izumi"

Shizuka is a teacher and high school counselor who lives her life fairly quietly. She usually spends most of her time on her work even though in her spare time she reads Shonen manga. She could not ask for anything more in life, which was full of comforts, entertainment and distractions, especially because she likes her own work, or that is what she tries to pretend since deep down there is something that is deeply bitter for her. Currently Shizuka is over 30 years old and still does not have a partner or husband, something that bothers her deeply, because the longer she ages, the probability of finding a partner decreases, and the further she moves away from that possibility, she can become more and more socially stigmatized by the people around her, because nobody normally likes older single women in her country

However, this is not something that distracted Shizuka from her work, as she kept her deep feelings and her rush to find a partner to herself most of the time, dedicating most of her time to passionately doing her job as a teacher and helping her students to solve the problems in their lives and also to be better people, for which Shizuka is proud to feel on many occasions a kind of second mother for her students or, even, in some exceptional cases, to become friends with her students. She also finds it quite easy to get distracted and absorbed in work since she is the deputy teacher to supervise most of the school's social events, so she can avoid getting bored at any moment and have fun with her students at almost any circumstance

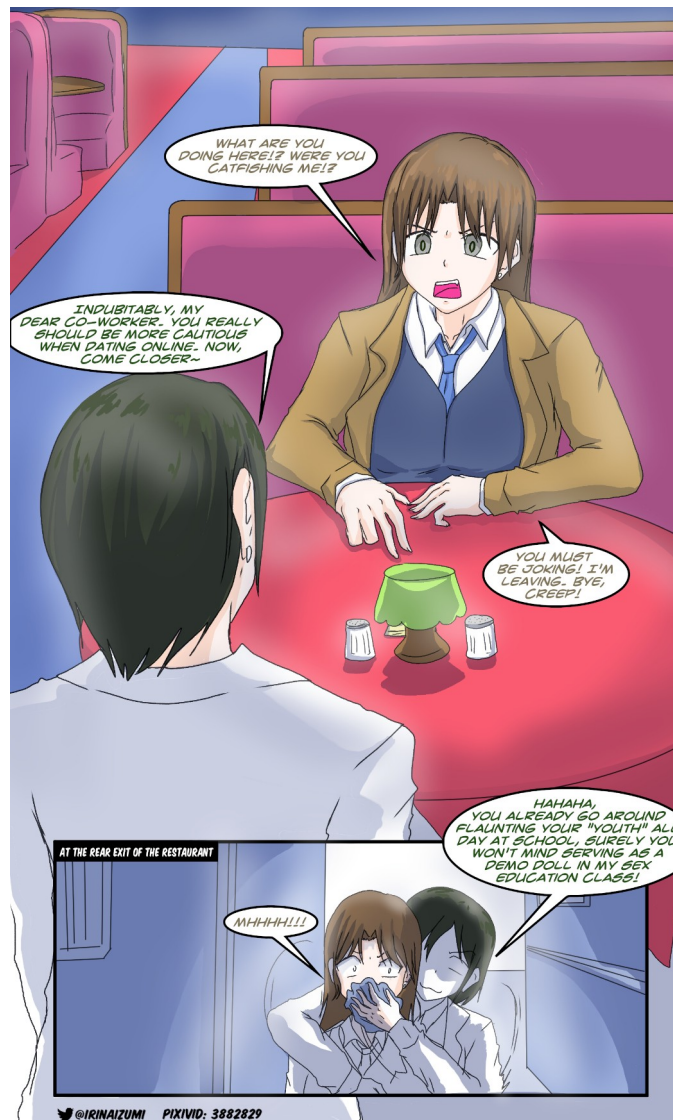

However, meanwhile, deep down Shizuka couldn't stand the bitterness of not finding a partner for much longer, so she sets out to do something about it to end her singleness and find the ideal man. Unfortunately, Shizuka never had any luck with boys and in her youth, she might have pushed several away by accident, especially because of the force and violence with which she handles her personality every day. That's when she Shizuka ended up thinking for a long time about some way or tactic to finally find a partner, until she came up with something.

The other day there were some young people at the school where she works, playing with their cell phones and chatting with someone, all during their class. Then Shizuka took away their phones and, seeing what app they had open at the time, it seems that most of her students were talking to strangers through an increasingly popular dating app, setting user preferences to just finding people with things in common and having the chance to chat with them for a long time before meeting them in person. Shizuka then realized that she had a golden opportunity to find a partner and installed that app on her mobile phone, she configured the application with her likes and preferences and started looking for people who could be potential partners for her.

Over the passing months Shizuka adapted quite a lot to the application and began to chat continuously with several men who, coincidentally, in addition to sharing some personal tastes with her, also lived in the same city and area as her, something that the application did by itself since the phone Cell phone has location data. There is a man who specially calls her attention, Asahi, who seems to share her intense taste for Shonen manga. So Shizuka decides to meet him at a restaurant one day for dinner late at night, especially so that her students would not see that she was having dates with men, and they could bother her with it, even though Shizuka remained afraid of being stood up by the man or that the man did not accept the invitation because it was too hasty. However, everything changed when the day came.

In front of Shizuka appeared the teacher of the sex education subject, with a lot of intimate information about Shizuka herself. It seems that everything has been a farce, because Asahi was neither more nor less than her fellow female sex education teacher, something that rots and hurts Shizuka's heart, but she does not show and, on the contrary, she shows anger and is offended facing her classmate's grievance, while that crazy woman, the other teacher, talks weird things about Shizuka, making fun of how she shouldn't trust people she meets on the internet and that she should accept her offer to be a sex doll to teach biology and sex education to youngsters before her bodies wrinkles. Shizuka, upset and offended, decides it's time to go before listening to her annoying co-worker any longer, until she, when she left through the back door out of shame that there was someone waiting for her with a camera or some witness to such an embarrassing situation at the main entrance and exit of the restaurant, then that other teacher took her by surprise and put a cloth soaked in some fluid of very strong smell. Maybe chloroform? Shizuka, unable to defend herself or do anything else about it, completely lost consciousness.

After several hours, on what seems like the next day, even though Shizuka isn't sure how much time has passed, her vision finally clears. For some reason, Shizuka feels a lot of heat and excitement running through her body, and her sense of shame and adrenaline are very altered. Shizuka wonders what happened or what is happening now, because as much as she tries to move, her body remains unresponsive, as if she were imprisoned in some mold or casing made to measure for her body and covered with that apparent rigid material, even though she verified that the material wasn't that stiff and she also blacked out a bit again when one of the students surrounding and inspecting her squeezes her breast to see how realistic it is. Had she really been turned into a sex doll for sex education class? Shizuka thinks.

Shizuka throughout the day and offended by the perverted looks of her students while posing nude, and also constantly groped throughout her body by students and teachers, something that intensely aroused her but also annoyed her, she tried to reorganize her thoughts, when suddenly a noise was heard from the darkness outside. It seems that two men with bad intentions have entered through the window of the classroom and have been surprised to see what appeared to be a naked person in the middle of the night at school, although they soon realize that it was really a very realistic sex doll. The boys entered the school to find and steal a chemistry kit to experiment with substances of dubious origin, but when they saw a sex doll of that quality, they couldn't pass up the opportunity. and decide to take her away in the middle of the night. The two men, undecided as to what they should do with the sex doll, flip a coin. If it comes up heads, they will keep the sex doll for their own entertainment, if it comes up tails, the sex doll should be sold and the profits shared. Meanwhile Shizuka can't believe what she sees, as her fate will be decided by a coin toss.

The next day, finally, it seems that to Shizuka's fortune, she had won the least infringing option to her existence, or well, maybe?

Shizuka was there, in the best outfit her new temporary owners had found at a sex toy store. The men finally decided to sell her at a very high price with a friend of theirs in an erotic shop, but, well, at least Shizuka will now be able to find a match infallibly, right? Even in her new destiny, as an ultra-resistant and perhaps practically immortal sex doll. Now, what could she possibly go wrong with her plans? Shizuka thinks as her mind begins to erode and wander about what has happened and what can happen now.

