

"So, have you grown accustomed to this lovely cell? I have myself spent the past couple months in it, and I already knew every nook and cranny after a few days. Got not much else to do in between my treatments than crawling and wiggling from wall to wall, but I guess you can understand that by now. Also, you spent way too much time watching me squirm through that window in the door. You loved observing my helpless form, listening to my muffled pleas to be freed. What a weird nurse you were!"

"I could tell you had a crush on me from the moment I laid eyes on you. All it took was a bit of me flirting back at you with my eyes whenever you paid me a visit. You were so curious, so aroused, you didn't even question my motifs. You think it was your idea to switch places, don't you? Well, my dear, it wasn't. I talked you into it and you didn't even notice! 'Oh nurse, being tied up like this is getting me so horny! You should try this, too! Please let me cum! Please nurse, I would love to return the favor!' Oh gosh, you were so quick to get out of your uniform and me free from those restraints. We agreed to switch back after a week of you living your fantasy as a patient. And by your frantic struggling I take it the tease-and-denial-chastity-belt is driving you insane and you want to get out now."

"But I kinda love playing the mean nurse! Teasing and taunting all the patients here is just so much more fun than being tied, teased and denied 24/7. Plus, your uniform fits me so well! And since the other nurses believe you quit a week ago and I am your replacement, there's no one searching for you. Sorry, but I think this turned into a permanent change of roles now. Guess you should have never removed my gag... Don't be mad, you're still my favorite patient! I scheduled you for a 10-hours tease and denial session this afternoon! See you then, patient 326!"