STORY 4 DAVID:

Today is Holocaust Remembrance Day, and we have a story about that later. Some of you may know the significance of the pink triangle, and how the NAZIs used that to identify LGBTQ prisoners. Prior to Hitler become Chancellor in 1933, Germany had a thriving gay culture and Berlin was known as the “gay capital of the world.” Starting in 1935, up to 100,000 people were arrested, and 15,000 ended up in concentration camps. Their suffering didn’t end upon liberation – sadly, for many it only continued. Some even found themselves going through courts a second time being arrested for anti-sociality and being imprisoned. It wasn’t until the 1970s when these survivors were acknowledged. The 1966 musical Cabaret and movies like Mel Brooks To Be or Not To Be raised the awareness we have today. So on Holocaust Remembrance Day, it is proper to remember all the victims of NAZI oppression.

Amazon challenges hundreds of union ballots in Alabama as measure appears to be failing

There are reports tonight that, as we predicted, Amazon is challenging hundreds of ballots in the vote for unionization in Alabama. The New York Times reported that about 55% of employees participated, casting 2,800 total votes. It is worth noting that not all employees were eligible to vote, and we don't have a count of how many eligible employees participated. Early reports indicate the measure is failing by a wide margin. Both sides are gearing up for a long legal battle

The Kitsap Sun is reporting that a 61 year old Silverdale man, who lives in the Vintage at Silverdale Senior Apartments, was tripping balls on acid and went on a rampage. According to officials they received an automated 911 call after a fire alarm was pulled. When police arrived, a chair was smashed through a fourth floor window. The police report extensive damage to furniture, fixtures, and nine windows. The unnamed man was taken to St. Michael Medical Center where he made threats of violence, rape, and used racial slurs. His wife says he frequently uses acid, but may have taken too much or got some bad stuff. He is booked in the Kitsap County Jail [VIDEO CLOSER]
