MONTHLY CHALLENGE // SNOW STUDIES

MEDIUM: Any medium that involves color.

REFERENCE: Find it here: LINK

INSPIRATION: Find it here: LINK

CHALLENGE // DECEMBER 2023

This month we will be making snow studies together! You can paint a landscape, or do focused studies of the texture and color of snow.

Use the reference images provided through the links above to complete them! Focus on capturing the unique colors and softness that snow has.

TIPS

- Snow is white, but has so many other colors too. Try to capture a wide range of colors when drawing snow!
- Experiment with textured brushes to capture the unique powdered texture.
- If you find yourself getting overwhelmed by the landscapes, zoom in and focus on smaller details instead.

HELPFUL RESOURCES

> ENVIRONMENT ESSENTIALS

This tutorial shows the most important and basic techniques I use to convey an environment, and elaborates on atmospheric perspective.

> DRAWING CLOUDS

The process for painting clouds is quite similar to that of painting snow! This tutorial includes tips on how to approach shapes and color.

> PROCESS VIDEO // MOUNTAIN

This process video runs you through the full process for my snowy mountain painting.

BONUS CHALLENGE

Try drawing snow on top of some random shapes, forms, or characters.

- You could place it onto some quick tree or rock sketches to create isolated elements.
- You could also map it onto a character to create a unique design!
