

Family Chantel - WATN - S01-S03

If you're new here, Chantel and Pedro are no longer together. The dissolution of their marriage is covered in the remaining seasons of The Family Chantel. Let's see what some of the cast are up to:

Chantel officially reached her goal of becoming an aesthetic nurse, and works for Southern Surgical Arts. Her services include lip/cheek filler, neurotoxin, SylfirmX, MorpheusB, Laser Hair Removal, and more.

paula_hahn_oshea TV has made you a very despised person and it will take a lot for you to convince the world otherwise. There is your side, her side and the truth. As a man, you should tell your sister & mom to mind their business, live your own life and then set the record straight. If you and Chantel would have kept both families out of your marriage, you could have been the best power couple out there. I wish you good luck as you continue moving towards your future. 14w 9 likes Reply

Unfortunately for you two, he hasn't posted a shirtless photo in a little over two years.

All of the Family Chantel siblings are still doing their thing as well. If you're new here: The Children Chantel's names are actually CeAir Shantel (Chantel), River Knight Christoph (River), Royal Christopher, and Winter Skylar (all names confirmed by Thomas' father's obituary, who was a very respected, award-winning Marine for over 20 years serving in the Vietnam and Korean wars).

Royal and Chantel have Wylie as their last name, because Karen and Thomas were unmarried college sweethearts when Royal and Chantel were born, and it was common to give the mother's last name in the 80s and 90s. They got married, and then had both River Knight and Winter... who both got the hyphenated names of Wylie-Everett.

For anyone wondering, yes, they all have the same parents; Mr and Ms Nasty or Not. Thomas and Karen were married in 1991, and they have lived in this house on the show since they purchased it in 2018 for $192,600. It's now worth over $300k.

There's an unfounded rumor Father Thomas used to be a flight attendant, but there's a lot more evidence he owned a company called EVERETT ANYSPORTS for five years, which is featured as sponsoring a lot of Mrs Nasty or Not's business events.

Thomas is often mistaken for Football Hall of Famer Thomas Everett, who has a successful record playing for Baylor University and the NFL. THAT Thomas Everett is a current Athletic Trainer in the Dallas area. I have not found any evidence that Father Thomas has been able to capitalize off of this similar name, but I can confirm he spent some time as a football coach.

Everett ANYSPORT was dissolved in February of 2019. The only current business listed at their home address is Chantel J Aesthetics LLC, managed by CeAir Wylie-de-Jimeno. Winter previously had her own LLC, Wintercky LLC, but currently is an online influencer and model - and we see more of her weight loss journey in The Family Chantel.

River is still working on his music career and making appearances. He's going with a shorter haircut now.

Royal and Angenette are still together

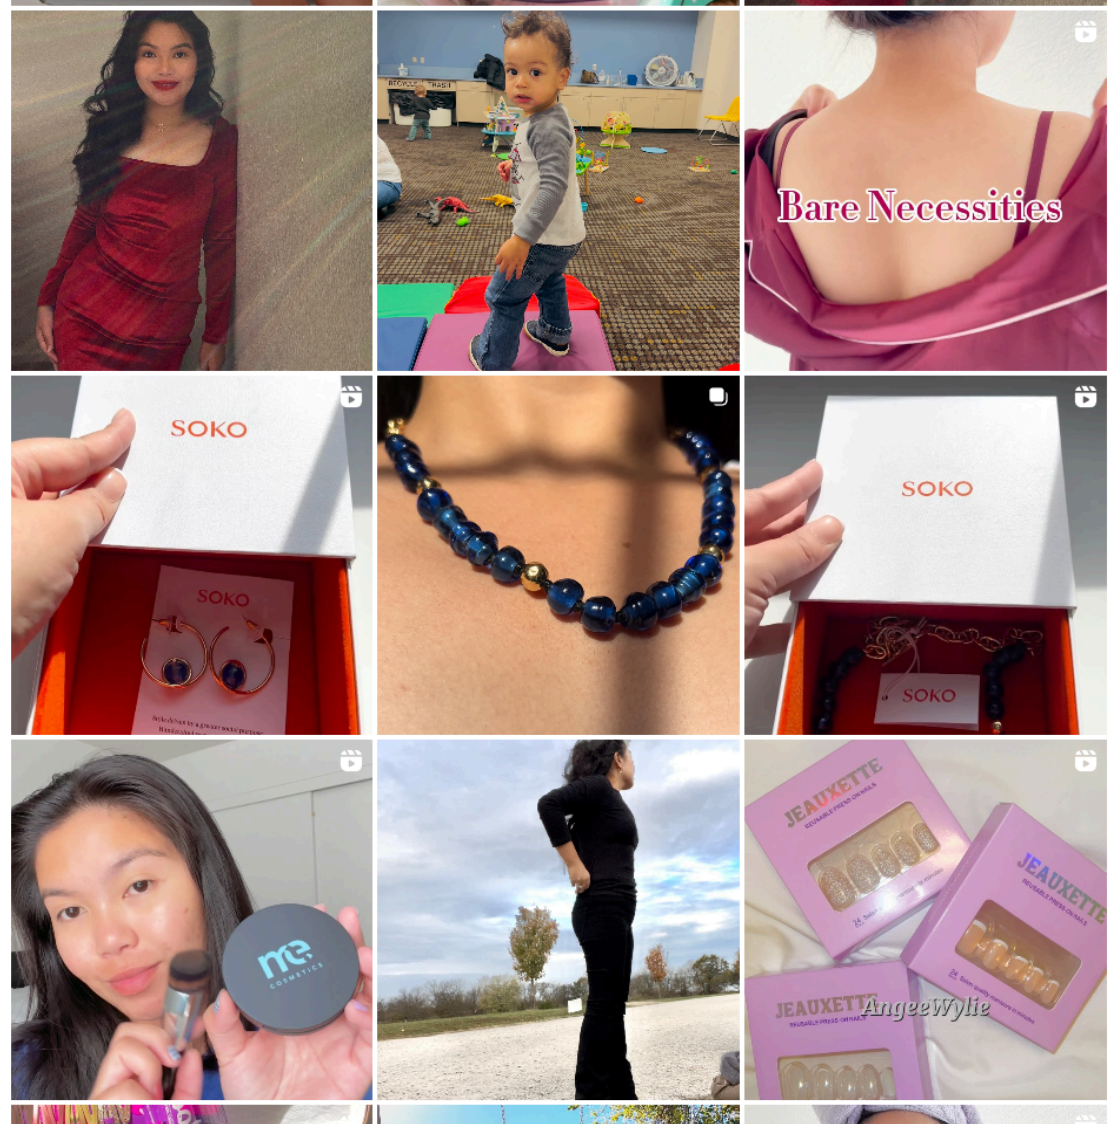

They had their only baby, Hunter, about two years ago.

I want you to zero in on Ms.Karen_Nasty_or_Not commenting that he's the love of her life.

Angenette is a User Generated Content Creator.

I found out that Royal has been in the US Army this entire time and was trained as a Doctor's Assistant. I was unable to find the base Karen mentioned where he received training (she just called it schooling in Texas - there seems to be a pattern of military erasure on this show for some reason).

He was also... in a band in 2015.

The band's name was "The Native" and it looks like they mostly played house parties.

I know, I know, it is very strange to see him actually smiling - but I confirmed that's actually him.

Royal keeps a low profile; he and his family are currently stationed at Fort Leavenworth in Kansas... which is popular for their Army Command and General Staff College... and is also home to the United States Disciplinary Barracks, the only maximum-security prison in the United States Department of Defense.

Karen

Karen is a wild follow on social media. In 2020, she had her own short-lived Facebook Watch show called "Ask Mama Chantel". She previously discussed developing a transformative life method called "Evolve Adapt Transform Expand," and has created products that have BSR written on them, which is short for "bullshit repellent."

As you can see from the photo above, the family that films together all have business ideas together - see how Thomas's AnySport is presenting The Finer Things Club (which I only know from that one episode of The Office), and it's an empowerment event?

I found out that Karen was working at the Gwinnett School of Martial Arts before the pandemic. Can you imagine?!

Robin Martinelli

Robin's been a private investigator since 1997, helping in over 10,000 cases in Georgia, and is no stranger to the spotlight. If you're new here, we recapped her story on Where Are They Now, HEA Season 3: She's been featured on everything from local news to The Montel Williams Show, where one of her daughters was highlighted as one of the youngest licensed private investigators in the country. Robin also appeared in Netflix's Life After Death with Tyler Henry.

But her life isn't just about crime-solving – she's also a mom of three: her other daughter made history filing for one of the first same-sex marriages after the 2015 Supreme Court ruling. Robin is also a grandmother and wife.

Robin became an amputee in 2019 from a medical episode, but her community rallied around her - building a wheelchair ramp at her house and friends removing every left shoe in her closet.

Robin is still covering investigations - and has been featured as an expert on news channels and even some podcasts.

Demarcus Cook - The Twerk Instructor and Hairdresser seen on The Single Life (AKA Mooney)

Mooney is out here living that life: working choreography, appearing in shows and music videos (with great production value), and still doing hair and makeup (and offers personal training in the gym to get that booty strong).

His Twerk Work Space has had a serious upgrade since the show as well. He is still living in the Atlanta area. There are a number of arrest records for a DeMarcus Cook in the state of Georgia, but they are for someone much older who owes child support and has frequent drug related arrests.

Doctor Proctor - Winter's Weight Loss Doctor

Yes, Y'all have seen Doctor Proctor, when you watched the Bi Curious with "Too Large" in July of 2021. He has also been on 1,000 Lb Sisters, CNN Interviews, and Family by the Ton. Basically he's a TV personality that owns a bariatric surgery practice. He's married to a dentist and they have three sons, taking them all on family vacations and to professional sports games around Atlanta.

This is the closest I was able to find to a shirtless pic.

Dr. Myla: The Medspa Doctor from Chantel's Job Interview

Dr Myla, of Preserve Your Pretty, the medspa Chantel interviewed with, is thriving. Y'all she is legitimately a plastic surgeon resident. Her background before aesthetic enhancements was wound healing and burn treatment. She's also been honored with the Samuel L. Roessler Research Fellowship Award by Ohio State University, as well as many recognitions for her plastic and laparoscopic surgery excellence.

The receptionist with the sparkling shirt was just wearing the business logo in sequins.

“Dr. Tiy-E Muhammed is a Licensed Psychosexual Therapist, Vegan Consultant, Life Advisor, Author, Motivational Speaker, Educator, Writer for Marriage.com, and Spiritual Coach (C.A.S.E.S.), and Radio & TV Personality. He was the first in his family to pursue higher education, receiving a B.A. in Political Science, an M.S. in Educational Psychology from Eastern Illinois University, Master of Science in Sport-Exercise Psychology (Argosy University) and an Ed.D. in Community Counseling from Argosy University. I am an Air Force Veteran, a member of the Prince Hall Affiliated Masons, and a member of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, Inc.” Well... that’s what he put on his LinkedIn.

His on screen appearances include “The Ricki Lake Show,” TBS’ “The Real Gilligan’s Island,” “MTV’s Made,” ‘The Real Housewives of Atlanta,’ Bravo’s “ManSwers,” and more. His relationship advice has been featured in Cosmopolitan, Essence, Jet, Ebony Magazine and more. Just a note, his appearance on Real Housewives of Atlanta was as a blind date for a housewife, not for relationship advice.

When the show aired in 2004, he was promoting himself as a psychologist with a PhD on both his website and books. A writer for the Atlanta Journal and Constitution did an article on this “Love Doctor” which revealed numerous holes in his resume, including the fact that he wasn’t a psychologist at all. The writer called up Clark Atlanta University and found out he never got that PhD in psychology. The writer could only verify he attended Southern Illinois University for just one semester as an unspecified graduate student.

As for Clark Atlanta, Tiy-E claimed he left his four year associate professor position in the psychology department because of low pay and “no longer felt the spark” for teaching - turns out school officials also figured out his credentials were fake, and fired him.

That writer also looked up his non-profit organization called “Man II Man Inc.,” - and it turned out to be for profit. He claimed that he had not “filed the paperwork” to make the corporation nonprofit. “I’m still forming the board of directors,” he said. Immediately after, his website was changed to describe the organization as “community-based,” rather than nonprofit.

Prior to that, HOT 107.9, an Atlanta radio station used to feature Tiy-E as “the Love Doctor”, responded by clarifying that his station did “not refer to Muhammad as a psychologist or Ph.D. They call him ‘The Love Doctor.’”

Even after ‘earning a master’s degree in a year’ in guidance and counseling from Eastern Illinois University, he claimed to be unaware that falsely claiming to be a psychologist is a misdemeanor. When a reporter read him the Georgia Law Code that relates to psychologists (Sec. 43-39-7), he said, “I’m a life coach, I say I’m a life coach. It makes things simpler.” Again, suddenly, he dropped the description of himself as a psychologist. He later acknowledged he had not graduated from Southern Illinois but said he had a doctorate from an unaccredited online university. He did not provide immediate documentation.

That unaccredited online university he mentioned is the Argosy University he credits a Masters and his PhD on LinkedIn, which was a private, for-profit university owned by Dream Center Education Holdings. The US Department of Education cut off all federal funding to Argosy University in 2019, and all campuses closed.

He claims to have obtained the Doctor of Education in Pastoral Studies/Counseling first in 2015, and was also working on the Masters in Sport Exercise Psychology later in 2018; so I’m guessing Argosy offered him some kind of BOGO degree deal.

He still has the fake Southern Illinois University PhD in Psychology degree listed on his LinkedIn profile.

Alejandro

Alejandro has done a lot of work to scrub his online appearance since the show. He's virtually erased all evidence of working at a cell phone store, and that time in 2020 he tried to position himself as CEO of Perfumeria AEPS ("the best RD prices at the perfume level!". He's attempted to curate his online presence to be a coding instructor after earning a bachelors degree in computer science in June from Jewish-sponsored Touro University of New York.

If you list yourself as an expert in all of these; you truly don't know much about any of them:
"Full stack web developer | HTML | CSS | JavaScript | React | Node.js | Express.js | Python | C# | Java | MongoDB | SQL"

Full stack web developer | Touro College | HTML | CSS | JavaScript | React | Node.js | Express.js | Python | C# | Java | MongoDB | SQL

59 connections

Despite all of these credentials... He doesn't share an online gallery, portfolio, or single website he's ever completed. He lists his only professional experience as a coding instructor for kids through a franchise that sells all sorts of STEM lessons outside of an academic environment. He also lists a part time internship (just after his cell phone store era) where he brags about using WIX to build a recruiting website for coding developers (this is NOT a flex for a "full stack developer").

He also recently shared instagram stories about building web browser making tic tac toe, rock paper scissors, and snake in javascript... and, upon closer inspection, another tab he had open was a youtube instructional video on how to do it... embarrassing

const display = document.getElementById("display")

function appendToDisplay(input){ display.value += input;

function clearDisplay(input){ display.value = "";
}

function calculate(){ try {
    display.value = eval(display.value);
  } catch (error) {
    display.value = "Error";
  }

He's gotten a lot of followers as a food and travel influencer and some attempts at modeling - he has a ton of pictures just like this one with no tagged businesses or designers, captioned with only ambiguous insufferable crap like "every day is a new day" and "don't count the days, make the days count"

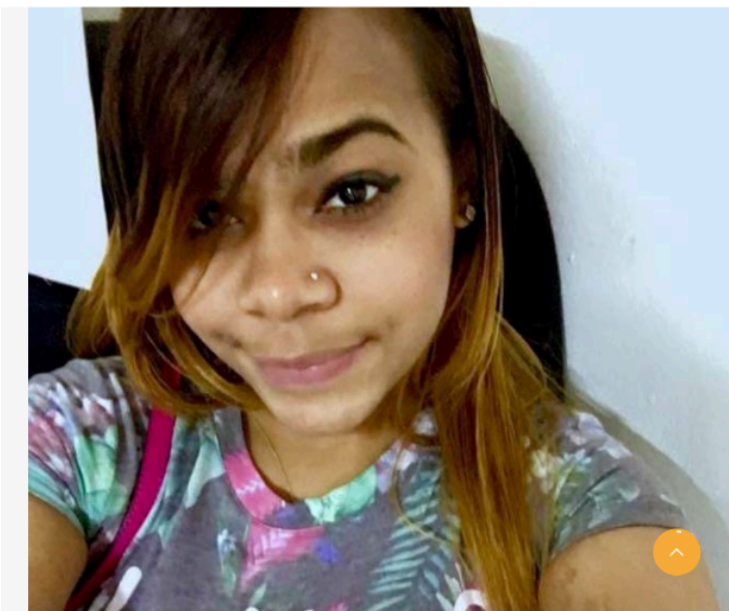

To his credit, he's doing much better at this online influencer life than Angenette (19 thousand vs 9 thousand followers)

This isn't spoiling anything, but he actually "brings divorce papers" to a filming day. There's also speculation online that Alejandro's divorce papers (seen blurred out in a later episode) aren't real. Many New York residents were quick to hop on the internet and plainly say this looks more like some random essay in Word than an actual divorce decree. Viewers pointed out there's no proper formatting with the double columns, no plaintiff info, no court case numbers, and no short paragraphs to start the document, no judges signature and no court stamp. Copies also have different colored stamps with dates on the final page.

Not much is known about Alejandro's First Ex Wife, but I'll definitely dig a bit more for next time.

<https://gossipnextdoor.com/meet-sahira-zacarias-alejandro-padron-ex-wife-her-age-job/>
<https://www.instagram.com/sahiz14/>

There's also a rumor that Alejandro introduced Lidia to eScott. When Scott was in New York for a travel contract, he happened to meet Alejandro in the gym and started to give him tips. Nicole had shown Lidia a photo of Scott and that's when the relationship took off.

Yes, Lidia really is an attorney

She has a law degree from Universidad Tecnológica de Santiago, and there are case records of her participating in a divorce case. The company she worked for helped with commercial law, real estate law, motor vehicles, mortgages, trade name registration, divorce and trademarks. Immigration, as speculated by Mother Chantel, is noticeably missing.

Megan Montenegro

Megan has really built a successful online influencer and modeling presence, released a single, and y'all, it's no surprise she doesn't have time for River. On top of being a working single mom, she's also been in the National Guard since 2016 or 2017.

SSG Megan Montenegro takes her Oath of Enlistment given by CPT John Dunn.

Thank you to 48th Infantry Brigade Combat Team for helping to coordinate such an exciting reenlistment ceremony!

Here she is getting promoted to Staff Sergeant in 2021, and taking her Oath of Enlistment for another 6 years while flying in a UH 60 Blackhawk Helicopter. As a reminder, Season 3 of The Family Chantel aired at the end of 2021.

Here's a photo of her troop working with the 170th Cyber Protection Team, helping to keep military networks safe and secure, supporting the needs identified by the Department of Defense and state leadership.

She also gave music a try, releasing "I do", under the artist name Cammy last year. Could she mean Cammy from Street Fighter?

Megan also graduated with her Masters in Business Administration with a concentration in Cyber Security from the University of South Carolina Aiken in December; so she's been working on her education this entire time as well.

Megan has been a little quiet on social media lately: It seems like her immediate world wasn't completely rocked by Hurricane Helene, but she has been actively participating in the recovery. Her family opened their doors, inviting people to come eat and to come take a shower in their home.

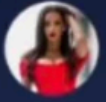

Jah

<https://www.facebook.com/TheJahKing>
<https://www.instagram.com/officialyahkyin/>

Jah's entire online presence is memes promoting his religion and all sorts of red pill ideology. He thinks being gay is a sin, he thinks masturbation is murder, he thinks remarrying after divorce is a sin - all of which is incredibly rich coming from a guy who has children with two different women he never married. Redditors point out that he cherry picks certain beliefs from different religions that suit him. He claims to have a podcast, but what he really has is a youtube channel with 468 subscribers and no original content. There is no evidence he has any relationship; let alone multiple wives... or job.

I'm sure he got big mad about two years ago when Chantel shared this photo of Winter and Asuelo getting a little cozy at a 90 day cast party.

Don't worry y'all; they never dated.

I'll end it with this:

SHOW FRAUDACITY ALERT

Here is a photo of Pedro with his half brothers (that he claimed he never met), Nicole, and Chantel at a party eight years before season 4 aired.
